Hooker official pleads no contest to killing 2 stray dogs

Town council denies Osborne's request to be reimbursed fine, defense fees

The Hooker (Okla.) City Supreme Court ruled Friday that a Hooker man killing two stray dogs last December in the small Texas County town had fair trial.

Texas County Court Clerk M. Denise Hills said Forrest "Frosty" Osborne, 52, of Hooker, Okla., was convicted in Hooker, Okla., on March 8. On that date, he also pointed a cash bond of $2,500 prior to sentencing and was released.

Hills said Osborne retained to court after the trial, but before sentencing. She said the city reporter mistakenly entered a plea of "no contest" instead of "guilty" in the Hooker municipal court and was fined $500 on each count.

It is a move that surprised many Hooker residents. Osborne then sent in a request to the Hooker Town Council to reimburse him for the fine and fees (S1,200), which would cover his fees, court costs and attorney's fees.

The town council denied the request with the council denied the request, according to a resident at the city clerk's office.

Osborne's troubles began when he shot and killed two stray dogs on Oct. 7, 2012. The dogs were in Osborne's Pentanoville home, and a few days afterward, many in the community were upset.

The public outcry immediately got Texas County Sheriff Rick Caddell involved in the investigation. Soon after three months, that investigation resulted in Osborne's arrest March 8 on two counts of animal cruelty.

Witnesses said Osborne had shot dead toward the school when he killed the dogs — thus jeopardizing children.

City says goodbye to outgoing commissioners

By ROBERT PRECE
• Leader & Times

Dean Anspach and Roy Warren took their seats as part of the new Liberal City Commission Tuesday evening, but it was time to say goodbye to the two outgoing commissioners they replaced.

Mayor Jim Lawrence and commissioners presented a plaque to outgoing mayor Jim Longo's wife, Terri, for the absent commissioner. Commissioner Jim Lawrence, Harrison talked about Longo's service on the board.

"Jim was instrumental in the whole commission," Harrison said. "Much as everyone regrets Anspach's that you get knocked out of office, I'm sorry that you couldn't be with us today." Longo's absence was due to a family emergency, Harrison said. Harrison also praised Warren for his Girl Scout and Boy Scout service.

'Assassins' takes shot at gun control debate

Play dives into the mind of a killer

Why did they do it?

Four of the most pert questions asked after a tragic shooting occurs, and the newest production of Fine Arts Department at Seward County Community College/Area Technical School is seeking to share the answers.

"Assassins" will take the stage tonight and shows the audience the mindset of four men who shot and killed the president. Some successful, starting with John Wilkes Booth.

Booth is considered FC's 23, according to director Alison Bridger Chambers, and with the signing Adam once gun control, this was her way of shooting for "two birds with one stone."

For Chambers, the idea hits close to home. The mother of one of her college friends worked as a nurse at Sandy Hook Elementary School in Newtown, Conn. Mary Sherlach was one of the victims of the shooting. Twenty children and six adults were killed in the massacre.

"I felt like I needed to do something to set
