

MAAM's F-8H Crusader undergoes refurbishing

Thursday, 12 June 2014 10:23

A worker from Randy's Professional Painting sandblasts the F-8H Crusader as part of the refurbishment process for the plane. The workers will also paint and put the decals on the plane before it's ready for display again. L&T photos/Victoria Calderon

By VICTORIA CALDERON

• Leader & Times

The Mid America Air Museum is refurbishing one of its many display planes, the Chance Vought F-8H Crusader.

The business in charge of refurbishing the F-8H is Randy's Professional Painting, based out of Turpin, Okla. Workers are sandblasting, painting and replacing the decals on the plane.

