The typical term used in sports is a buzzsaw.

That's what South ran into Monday in a game Kenneth Henderson, and the result was a 46-12 loss.

Kenneth Henderson came out firing, and the Apache defense struggled to shut them down.

South on the other hand, struggled to even get a shot while the Henderson defense applied a full court press that disrupted South's offense.

Apaches bombed by Henderson, 46-12

By the end of the first quarter the Hawks had a 15-0 lead, and when the Apaches chipped away in the second quarter with two baskets, Kenneth Henderson used the long ball including a deep three at the buzzer to take a 24-4 halftime lead.

The Hawks continued to outpace the Apaches in the third quarter, outscoring South 18-2.

South won the fourth quarter 6-4, but it was little consolation in a 46-12 loss.
