Policy change coming for prom escorts

High Plains High School is set to implement a new policy regarding prom escorts starting next year. The school board has approved a resolution that will require students to be accompanied by a parent or guardian to the prom. This change is being implemented to ensure the safety of all students and to provide a more structured environment for the event. The school board also discussed the possibility of having a designated area for prom escorts, but this option was not chosen. The new policy will be in effect for the 2013-2014 school year.

Students and staff members of High Plains High School are seen during a school assembly or event.
