Wildfires force Boy Scouts from Spanish Peaks

Wildfires that engulfed the area last week forced the Boy Scouts of America to evacuate its camp at Spanish Peaks, Colo. The camp was closed for several days, and the organization is now looking for a new location. The camp is located in a high-altitude area, and the fires were caused by lightning strikes. The organization is currently in the process of finding a new location, and it is expected that the camp will be open again in the fall.

Dorothy goes to DC

Three young women from the Dorothy Dandridge Foundation are in Washington, D.C., to participate in a program that honors the actress. The program is called "Dorothy Dandridge: A Legacy of Excellence" and it is a part of the foundation's efforts to promote the actress's legacy. The women are participating in a series of events, including a panel discussion and a performance. The foundation is also planning to launch a new program in the fall.

The Dorothy Dandridge Foundation is a non-profit organization that was founded in 1982. It is dedicated to promoting the actress's legacy and to supporting the arts. The foundation has a number of programs, including a scholarship program and a performance program. It is also planning to launch a new program in the fall.
