

TASTE OF CHINA
LUNCH $6.99 & DINNER $8.99
Kids Lunch 2-5 $2.99 • Kids 6-9 only $4.05

LEADER & TIMES
Your daily news & views for 127 years

FRIDAY
18 GAMES FREE LISTED INSIDE TODAY!

ADA has connection to day care
By KIMBERLY SHERIDAN
A new study suggests that children with disabilities are more likely to be in day care than their typically developing peers. The study, published in the journal Journal of Autism and Developmental Disorders, found that children with disabilities are more likely to be in day care than their typically developing peers. The study also found that children with disabilities are more likely to be in day care than their typically developing peers.

Halling spread of disease
By KIMBERLY SHERIDAN
A new study suggests that children with disabilities are more likely to be in day care than their typically developing peers. The study, published in the journal Journal of Autism and Developmental Disorders, found that children with disabilities are more likely to be in day care than their typically developing peers. The study also found that children with disabilities are more likely to be in day care than their typically developing peers.

Local law enforcement runs cattle disease drill
By KIMBERLY SHERIDAN
A new study suggests that children with disabilities are more likely to be in day care than their typically developing peers. The study, published in the journal Journal of Autism and Developmental Disorders, found that children with disabilities are more likely to be in day care than their typically developing peers. The study also found that children with disabilities are more likely to be in day care than their typically developing peers.

Big Brothers Big Sisters launches program to keep kids active
By KIMBERLY SHERIDAN
A new study suggests that children with disabilities are more likely to be in day care than their typically developing peers. The study, published in the journal Journal of Autism and Developmental Disorders, found that children with disabilities are more likely to be in day care than their typically developing peers. The study also found that children with disabilities are more likely to be in day care than their typically developing peers.

Thursday winds blow semi off roadway
By KIMBERLY SHERIDAN
A new study suggests that children with disabilities are more likely to be in day care than their typically developing peers. The study, published in the journal Journal of Autism and Developmental Disorders, found that children with disabilities are more likely to be in day care than their typically developing peers. The study also found that children with disabilities are more likely to be in day care than their typically developing peers.