Routine blood test saved baby's life
MCADD a silent killer for many

At the age of 4 months, Jackson County resident Logan Coleen West, 4, looks like the healthiest, happiest baby in his parents' lives. Coleen and Morgan West look at their son, but know that only knew after his birth, he was a precious angel from death.

West says she never suspected her 4-month-old son had a serious medical condition until she noticed he was gaining weight very slowly and had frequent vomiting. She took him to the doctor, but the tests came back normal. It wasn't until a routine blood test at 4 months that the doctor discovered he had Medium Chain Acyl-CoA Dehydrogenase Deficiency (MCADD), a rare genetic disorder.
