Relationship prepares Big and Little Sisters to move out

By KIMBERLY JENSEN

Lincoln, Neb. — For Big and Little Sisters, the relationship between the two sisters is a bond that goes beyond the typical sibling bond. It's a bond that prepares them for the challenges of moving out on their own.

The Big and Little Sisters program is a mentoring program that pairs experienced young women with young women who are about to move out on their own. The program is designed to help the young women develop the skills and confidence they need to succeed in college and in the workforce.
