San Antonio proposal could bar Christians from city council

Christianity would be barred from city council if proposed ordinance passes

The San Antonio City Council is considering a controversial ordinance that would bar members of the Christian faith from serving on the city council. The ordinance, which was introduced by Councilman Ron McCall, would require council members to be members of a "recognized religious organization" that is not a Christian church. The ordinance is being challenged by the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) and the Texas Freedom Alliance. The ordinance is being debated in a public hearing on Sept. 10.
