Mental health care suffers drought season
Cuts cause 'unnecessary suffering, raises risk of crisis'
BY NICHOLE COHEN
As the drought continues to grip the West, the mental health care system is suffering. Many people are struggling with depression, anxiety, and other mental health issues. The lack of funding for mental health services is causing a significant gap in care. Many people are going without necessary treatment, leading to a higher risk of crisis and hospitalization. The mental health care system is in a state of drought, and it's time to take action.

2 juveniles charged in Fla. after bullied 12-year-old girl's suicide
By JAMES WATSON
WELLS RICHES, Fla. — A 12-year-old girl's suicide in Florida has led to the arrest of two juveniles. The girl, who was bullied, took her own life. The two juveniles, who were also bullied, are charged with the girl's death. The case has shocked the community and raised questions about bullying and mental health care.
