Local Facebook post asks to adopt or buy a baby
A local Facebook post asking for help in finding a baby for adoption or purchase has sparked a heated debate in the community. The post, which was posted by a user named 'John Doe', stated that he was looking for a baby who was 'available for adoption or purchase' and that he was willing to pay a significant amount of money for the child. The post was quickly removed by Facebook, but it had already spread widely on the platform. The community responded with a mix of support and criticism, with many people expressing concern about the ethics of buying and selling babies.

Lawyers seek dismissal of Kansas murder charge
A Kansas man's lawyers are seeking the dismissal of a murder charge against him. The man, who is currently in custody, was charged with the murder of a woman in a small town in Kansas. The lawyers argue that the evidence against their client is circumstantial and that there are several inconsistencies in the prosecution's case. They are requesting a pre-trial hearing to address these issues.

Maybe Nov. 30 before healthcare.gov is fixed
The Obama administration says it may not be able to launch the new health care website, healthcare.gov, until after Nov. 30. The website is intended to allow Americans to compare and purchase health insurance plans. However, the administration has encountered several technical difficulties during the development process. They are currently working to resolve these issues as quickly as possible.
