Sen. Moran sponsors bill to allow Kansans to keep their health care plans

Sen. Bob Moran (R-KS) has introduced legislation that would allow Kansans to keep their health care plans if they are currently covered under a self-insured plan. The bill, known as H.R. 127, would allow employers to self-insure their employees' health care costs, which would allow them to keep their current health care plans. Moran said that the bill is necessary because many employers are currently required to purchase health care for their employees through the federal government, which is often more expensive and less flexible than self-insuring. SW Kansas Black Hills customers to benefit from pipeline purchase
Customers in the Southwest Kansas Black Hills region will benefit from a recent pipeline purchase. The purchase, which was made by a local utility company, will allow for the construction of a new pipeline that will provide a more reliable and efficient source of water for the region. The pipeline is expected to be completed in the next few months, and it will provide a significant benefit to the local community. The purchase was made at a discounted price, which will allow the utility company to pass on the savings to its customers. The pipeline is expected to be completed in the next few months, and it will provide a significant benefit to the local community.

Colorado's mixed tax votes leave future unclear
Colorado's recent legislative session resulted in mixed outcomes regarding tax issues, leaving the future of the state's tax system uncertain. While some key tax measures were passed, others were defeated, and the overall picture is unclear. The state's tax system is currently under review, and the legislature is expected to continue to work on these issues in the coming months. The mixed results of the session suggest that there is still a lot of work to be done to resolve the state's tax issues. The legislature is expected to continue to work on these issues in the coming months.
