Sen. Moran sponsors bill to allow Kansans to keep their health care plans

Sen. Moran (R-Kan.) has introduced legislation that would allow Kansans to keep their health care plans if they are currently covered by a self-insured employer plan. The bill, known as H.R. 1234, would allow employers to self-insure their employees' health care costs, rather than purchasing a policy from a state-run risk pool. This would give employers more control over their health care costs and potentially lower the cost of coverage for employees. The bill also would allow employers to offer a choice of plans, including a self-insured option, to their employees. This would give employees more choice and potentially lower the cost of coverage. The bill is expected to be passed by the House in the coming months.

National Beef closes temporarily for operational issues

National Beef, a major supplier of beef to restaurants and food service providers, has announced that it will be closing temporarily for operational issues. The company has identified several areas where it needs to improve its operations, including its supply chain and its customer service. The closure is expected to last for several weeks. National Beef is committed to providing high-quality beef to its customers and is working to resolve the issues as quickly as possible. The company is also working to ensure that its employees are supported during this time.

Colorado's mixed tax votes leave future unclear

Colorado's voters have cast their ballots on a number of tax-related measures, leaving the future of the state's tax system unclear. The measures include changes to the state's income tax, sales tax, and property tax. The results of the vote are mixed, with some measures passing and others failing. This has led to a period of uncertainty for the state's tax system. The state's legislature will need to address these issues in the coming months. The future of Colorado's tax system remains uncertain.

SW Kansas Black Hills customers to benefit from pipeline purchase

Customers in the Southwest Kansas Black Hills region will benefit from a recent pipeline purchase. The purchase of the pipeline will allow for a more efficient and reliable supply of natural gas to the region. This will help to reduce the cost of natural gas for customers and improve the overall quality of service. The pipeline purchase is a significant investment in the region's infrastructure and is expected to have a positive impact on the local economy. Customers in the region are encouraged to take advantage of the benefits of the pipeline purchase.
