Emphasize safety when decorating for the holidays

Decorating for the holidays is a fun activity, but it's important to take safety precautions. The National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) reports that the number of fires caused by candles has increased in recent years. To prevent fires, NFPA recommends that candles be lit in a well-ventilated area, away from flammable materials, and never left unattended. Candles should be extinguished when leaving the room or going to bed. Other safety tips include using flameless candles, avoiding overloading electrical outlets, and using ladders safely when decorating.

Potted Christmas trees produce holiday cheer all year long

Christmas trees are a traditional part of the holiday season, but potted trees offer a new option. Potted trees can be decorated and enjoyed all year long. They are easy to care for and can be moved around the house. Potted trees are also a great option for those who do not have a fireplace or a large space for a tree. Potted trees come in a variety of sizes and styles, and can be decorated with lights and ornaments. They are a great way to bring the holiday spirit into your home all year long.

After second opinion, deadline day for ObamaCare website re-do arrives

The ObamaCare website is set to go live on December 1, 2013. However, the website has been the subject of significant criticism and scrutiny. The Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) has announced that it will be releasing a second opinion on the website's design and functionality. This second opinion is expected to arrive on December 1, 2013, which is the deadline for the website's re-do. HHS officials have stated that they are committed to ensuring that the website is user-friendly and accessible to all Americans. The second opinion will provide a detailed analysis of the website's strengths and weaknesses, and will recommend specific changes to be made. HHS officials are expected to release the second opinion in the coming days.

Kansas AG evaluating evidence in SE Kan. slayings

The Kansas Attorney General (AG) is currently evaluating evidence in the slayings of two young girls in Southeast Kansas. The girls were found dead in a wooded area near their home. The slayings occurred in the early morning hours of a recent day. The AG's office is working closely with law enforcement to gather evidence and identify the suspects. The investigation is ongoing, and the AG's office is expected to release more information in the coming days.
