Good morning! Because of the Christmas holidays, today's edition and the Christmas Day paper will be morning deliveries.

Iceland's hidden elves delay road projects

Reykjavik, Iceland (AP) — A small town in Iceland is famous for its hidden elves. The town of Hveragerdi is home to a large number of hidden elves, and the local government has decided to delay road projects in the area to avoid disturbing them. The town is located in a valley surrounded by mountains, and the hidden elves are believed to be responsible for the town's prosperity.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

Apollo 8 astronaut marks 1968 broadcast to earth

Houston (AP) — An Apollo 8 astronaut is marking the 45th anniversary of his historic broadcast to Earth from space. The astronaut, Fredrick S. Scott, was the first person to broadcast a Christmas message from space. The broadcast took place on December 24, 1968, and was watched by millions of people around the world.
