

College names People's Choice Awards

Lawyers: Pa. high paper to resume Redskins ban

Manhunt intensifies for Mississippi bank robber suspected in cop's death

LOOKING FOR A PET?

Page 4
MONDAY DECEMBER 30, 2013
LEADER & TIMES
Your daily news & views for $27.50

Man thought to be victim of serial killer found alive

Kismet home's decorations are 'TOPS'

Subject's remains were last found from in 1975, when he told his mother he was heading from New York to California.
A man presumed to be the victim of a serial killer was found alive in California today, according to police in San Francisco.

Police officers that he was wearing the blue jeans and white t-shirt, and was holding a white bag. The man was identified as a person who had been missing for years. The man was found in a wooded area near a highway. He was in good health and was able to communicate with the police officers. He was taken to a hospital for medical attention. The police officers are still investigating the case and are looking for more information about the man's disappearance.

1042 1982 1042 1042 Page 4 - Welcome to the new and improved LAT. When you can't get the printed version, go to www.leaderonline.com © 2013 KATV

DOJ enters 'knockout game' fray with hate crime charge

The Justice Department has filed a hate crime charge against a man who was involved in a "knockout game" in San Francisco.

The man, who was identified as a person who had been missing for years, was charged with a hate crime charge. The man was found alive in California today, according to police in San Francisco. The man was identified as a person who had been missing for years. The man was found in a wooded area near a highway. He was in good health and was able to communicate with the police officers. He was taken to a hospital for medical attention. The police officers are still investigating the case and are looking for more information about the man's disappearance.

Photo provided by [Source].