Okla. gay marriage ban struck down; ruling on hold

A federal judge has struck down the Oklahoma gay marriage ban, but the ruling is on hold. The judge, Judge David N. Baskett, ruled that the ban violated the U.S. Constitution. The ruling is a significant victory for the LGBTQ+ community. However, the ruling is on hold because the U.S. Supreme Court has agreed to hear the case. The Supreme Court will decide whether the Oklahoma ban is constitutional. The ruling is expected to have a national impact on the debate over gay marriage.
