Judge believes local tax collector signed fraudulent tax returns
A judge has ruled that a local tax collector signed fraudulent tax returns for several years, according to a report from the state's attorney general. The judge found that the collector, who worked for the state's Department of Revenue, signed returns for thousands of taxpayers without their knowledge. The returns were found to contain errors and omissions that would result in significant tax refunds for the taxpayers. The judge's decision is a landmark case in the history of tax fraud in the state.
