Woody Allen's allies cast doubt on sexual abuse claims

Woody Allen's allies cast doubt on sexual abuse claims

By AP Wire

NEW YORK (AP) — Woody Allen's allies on Monday cast doubt on the sexual abuse claims of a woman who says she was sexually abused by the filmmaker in the 1970s.

The woman, who is now 40, says she was sexually abused by Allen when she was 17 and he was 44. She says she was pregnant with his child, but she says she was not aware of the pregnancy until she was 19.

Allen's lawyer, Robert M. Speiser, says that Allen has never been charged with a crime and that he has never been convicted of any crime. He says that Allen has been married to Mia Farrow for 35 years and that they have four children together.

Speiser says that Allen has been a successful filmmaker and actor for over 40 years and that he has been a member of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences for over 20 years. He says that Allen has been a role model for many people and that he has been a great father to his children.

Allen's lawyer also says that the woman's claims are unfounded and that she is trying to ruin Allen's reputation. He says that Allen has never been charged with a crime and that he has never been convicted of any crime.

The woman's lawyer, David M. Green, says that his client has been sexually abused by Allen for over 10 years. He says that his client has been in therapy and that she has been diagnosed with post-traumatic stress disorder. He says that his client has been unable to work and that she has been unable to have a normal life.

Allen's lawyer says that he will fight the woman's claims and that he will sue her for defamation if she continues to make false statements about Allen. He says that Allen has a good reputation and that he has been a successful filmmaker and actor for over 40 years.

Nothing controversial in Super Bowl ads

Nothing controversial in Super Bowl ads

By AP Wire

NEW YORK (AP) — Many Super Bowl ads are so tame that they could be shown on a children's television channel, critics say.

The Super Bowl is the most-watched television event in the United States, and it is a major source of revenue for the networks that broadcast it. This year's Super Bowl is expected to draw over 100 million viewers.

Many of the ads shown during the Super Bowl are for products and services that are widely available and that are not controversial. Some of the ads are for fast-food restaurants, car manufacturers, and insurance companies.

Some critics say that the Super Bowl ads are too commercial and that they are not entertaining. They say that the ads are just a way for companies to promote their products and services.

However, many people enjoy the Super Bowl ads. They say that the ads are creative and that they are a fun way to spend time during the Super Bowl. They say that the ads are a reflection of the American way of life and that they are a source of entertainment.

The Super Bowl is a major event in the American calendar, and it is a source of pride for many people. The Super Bowl ads are a part of the Super Bowl experience, and they are a source of entertainment for many people.
