MacArthur uses every scrap of space

Students at a school in the city of Kansas City, Mo., are learning to use every scrap of space in the classroom. The school is a small, one-story building with a limited amount of space. The principal, John Smith, has implemented a program to make the most of the available space. This includes rearranging desks, using overhead storage, and encouraging students to be organized. The program has been successful in creating a more efficient learning environment.

County chooses to support school bond issue as individuals

The Board of Commissioners for the county has voted to support a school bond issue. The bond issue is for the purpose of funding a new school building and other educational facilities. The board members have expressed their support for the bond issue, recognizing the need for improved educational infrastructure. The bond issue will be put to a vote of the voters in the upcoming election.
