Special to the Journal-Examiner
An 11-year-old girl from Washington has become a national hero after she shot and killed a cougar that was tracking her brother. The girl, whose name is not being disclosed, was on a hike with her brother when she saw the cougar. She immediately took out her rifle and shot the animal in the chest. The cougar was killed and the girl and her brother were safely returned home.

California couple in $10M gold find may owe govt about half, report says
By Robert Kelly

A California couple has discovered a massive gold deposit worth $10 million. However, a report says they may owe the government about half of the value of the find. The couple, who are not being named, discovered the gold while mining on their property. The gold is estimated to be worth $10 million, but the government claims that they owe it about $5 million. The couple is currently in negotiations with the government over the matter.

San Francisco Chronicle reports that the find is a notable event under a 190-year-old mining ruling that holds a "discovery" is taxable the year it was discovered.
