An 11-year-old girl from Washington has become a national hero after she shot and killed a cougar that was tracking her brother. The girl, who is named Sarah, was out for a walk with her brother when she saw the cougar. She was scared but she knew she had to do something. She took out her rifle and shot the cougar in the chest. The cougar fell to the ground and Sarah ran to her brother. The incident was captured on video and went viral on the internet. Sarah is now a local celebrity and is being celebrated in her hometown.

California couple in $10M gold find may owe govt about half, report says
By Robert Kelly
Special to the Journal-Examiner
A California couple has discovered a massive gold deposit worth $10 million. However, they may owe the government about half of the value of the find. The couple, who are named John and Jane, were out for a walk in a remote area of California when they discovered the gold. They were excited and called the authorities. The authorities came and took samples of the gold. The results showed that the gold was pure and worth a lot of money. The couple is now waiting for the government to decide how much they owe. The government is expected to take about 50% of the value of the find.
