Kansas woman, 91, resists developer
LINDSEY LEE • A 91-year-old woman in Lawrence, Kan., is resisting a developer's plan to build a new house on her property. The woman, who is blind and has a hearing aid, says she has lived on the property for 60 years and does not want to be displaced. The developer, who is a local businessman, says he has offered her a large sum of money to leave the property. She has refused the offer and is now in court with the developer. The case is expected to go on for several more months.
