

Wash. police chief's dog brings home human skull

2014-04-23 10:30 AM EDT
A police chief's dog brought home a human skull from a crime scene in Washington state, police say. The dog, a 10-year-old Weimaraner named "Buddy," was on patrol with Chief Detective Steve Boudreau in the city of Everett on Tuesday. Buddy was on patrol with Chief Detective Steve Boudreau in the city of Everett on Tuesday. Buddy was on patrol with Chief Detective Steve Boudreau in the city of Everett on Tuesday.

Board members aim for more positive relationships
Committee session gets personal
By Sarah C. Cooper

Arbor Day planting
Page 3

County GOP meeting to find Reid's replacement
By Sarah C. Cooper

College presents spring concert
The Blue Chaperone at Sunset Concert Commission College Day
By Sarah C. Cooper

Government Days
Page 2

LEADER & TIMES
THURSDAY APRIL 24, 2014
Your daily news & views for 127 years

Douglas County OKs program for farmers market
By Sarah C. Cooper

Kansas Sampler Festival celebrating 25 years
This year's festival will be in Wamego on May 3 and 4

Kansas Sampler FOUNDATION

Topeka man pleads guilty to 2013 homicide
By Sarah C. Cooper

Oklahoma court rejects death-row inmates' claims