Tornado shelters face dilemma with pet lovers

LABRETONA
Tornado shelters face a dilemma with pet lovers. Many pet owners are reluctant to leave their animals in shelters during emergencies. This is especially true for pit bull mixes, which are often subject to breed-specific legislation (BSL) in many areas. Shelter officials are working to educate the public on the importance of spaying and neutering, and on the benefits of keeping pets in their homes during emergencies. Some shelters are offering pet-friendly emergency plans, but many pet owners are still hesitant to leave their animals in the hands of strangers.

2 men drop their federal lawsuit over Kansas voter ID law

LABRETONA
Two men have dropped their federal lawsuit challenging Kansas' voter ID law. The lawsuit, filed in federal court in Kansas City, sought to block the implementation of the law, which requires voters to show a government-issued photo ID at the polls. The men argued that the law violated the Constitution's Equal Protection Clause. However, the court ruled in favor of the state, and the men decided to drop their lawsuit. The law is set to take effect in November 2014.
