Pregnant women gain new options under health law

Under the Affordable Care Act, pregnant women now have more options when it comes to health insurance. The law allows pregnant women to purchase individual health insurance policies. This means that pregnant women can now get health insurance even if they are not currently employed. This is a significant change for many women who have had difficulty getting health insurance in the past.

Serving the needs of Clinton County, K.S. The health department is committed to providing quality care to all residents.
