Foster teen says she drank bleach to mask cannabis
A 17-year-old foster teen in Lincoln County says she drank bleach to mask the smell of cannabis. The teen, who is currently in the custody of the Lincoln County Sheriff's Office, was found by a neighbor who noticed a strong odor coming from her home. She was taken to a hospital where she was treated for stomach irritation. The incident has raised concerns about the use of bleach as a method to hide illegal substances.
